Bank Mirror. CINCINNATI, Sept. 30th, 1853. We, the undersigned. Bankers and Brokers of Cincinnati having seen the onmerous slanderous attacks against Mr. onn S. Dyr. in the various papers, feel it not only an act of justice, but a duty to state that the charges that were brought against him, were not for the redemption of Fraudulent Bank P per, but for keeping an Office for the purpose of redeeming money issued by another State, contrary to an Old Law of the State, passed ome years since to prevent foreign Bank Paper from circulating in this State -We, therefore, feel constrained to assert, rom the facts elicited on the trial, that the attacks seem to have been gotten up with a view to injure Mr. Dyg in his business,

The charge under which he was arrest ed, reads as follows :--

"No person shall keep or open an office or agency for the purpose of redeeming which have been issued for circulation as money, or currency, without express aut ority of a law of the State, under a penalty of five hundred dollars for every such offence, and every day such office or agency be kept for such purpose, shall be considered a distinct and separate of-> the world. Of the effect he remarks:- 'On a full view of the subject, we are inclined to the belief that there will be no very great decline in the value of the precious metals. The causes to which we have alluded will er.d to counteract that downward tendency in the value of gold, which would otherwise result from the vast increase .-But after making all reasonable allowance for the increased demand, the addition of $100 000,000 to the previous metals can hardly tail to produce some effect upon exchangeable value. As gold silver are a lawful tender in the commercial world, and as the law fixes their value, that value must remain; that is to say, a dollar will remain a dollar, an eagle a cagle, a franc a franc, and a sovereign a sovereign. But though these coins retain the same nominal value, their exchangeable values may be reduced by the rise in the price of articles which they will purchase. Thus, if a quantity of goods or provisions, which can now be purchased for $100, should rise to $110, n consequenc of the abundance of gold. this must be substantially the same in effect as though the gold had depreciate; ten per cent.
